Sir the plague encreaseth and my Lord Treasurer hath given furth that the next terme shalbe adiourned but for necessarie returnes of proces it is thought the first day & last day shalbe kept with attendance of ffewe Clerkes/ my partner thanketh you for her suster letice you could not haue sent her a better token/: she is desirous to haue her man humffrey to bringe vp horses against the begynninge of the tyme of holdinge the next terme aboutes xvth of Iune, and then god willinge against midsommer we shall visite you, my Lady Riche hath bene desirous to haue my partner with her at Lees/ my Lady her mother & Suster Dorothy Will accompanye her besides many other good Gossips/.

The privie seale money for Staffordshire is not expected to be paid before micelmas The warrant that came furth was for payment of such as two yeres before had lent. & Staffordshire lent a moneth after at first but some by private frendship haue made meanes to obtayne speciall warrant. but in micelmas terme their generall payment wilbe/ I was yesterday with Mr Auditor signifieng that I had spoken with Mr Darrell in whose charge Sir Amice Pouletes lettre mencioned lxx^s should be accompted/. Mr Darrell signified that he made his acomptes privatelie to Sir Amyce & his officers. and that all Sir Amyce acomptes are made in his name & his exchequers being an infinite great acompt which is to be found with Mr Auditor Conyers. Where I must take a litle paynes, and if this be omitted in his charges, you must haue allowance. and then Mr auditor saith he will charge Sir Amyce exchequers/. for Beaudesert reckoninges vpon sight of my Lord Treasurers Lettre he will give allowance without troublinge my Lord Treasurer./ Thus in hast vntill the next messenger with 1593. commendacions & duties remembred from euery bodie/ &c. I Comitt you to god this 26 of May.
