Good brother upon satter day last my husband fel out with me. for not haueing prouision of beare: I told him of my want of mault. abufe three wickes agone. but he would nether prouid it him selfe, nor a low me money: I borrowed of my neghtbores as much as I cold. yet for all that. the falt was layd all upon me: with maney bitter corsses. and the charge of the house takenn from me. and comma= nded to medle with nothing: but keepe my chamber: my saruants dis charged. espeshallye she that lookes to my children: and is a bout my self: he wold neuer be halfe so ile. but for his mother. now her mayde useth ^{^to} stand at my dore. to heare what I say. and then tels my mother in law. and makes it more: but I know [◇] my husband will not looke to things lounge. but she must haue the ouer seete of all, and then shall not I be able to stay: good brother. be good unto me: and ether wryte. or geate my brother Anth^{^o}ney to com. and talke with him: if I may but haue the rule of my children: and sone what to mentayne them. and my selfe. I wold desier nomore: good brother wryte unto me. what weare my best corse. in this my distreses: as you loue me. let not my mother know: this with my kindest commendations to you. and my good sister. and thanks for my tokeun: praying to god for your health: I rest. your pore troublesome sister
