Our predecessors were neuer so conquered by y^e Danes as I ame at thys tyme. for theyr comminge haue put my litle Court busines out of y^e way, and dispossessed me of so neer hopes, as lackd litle of possession.
I must confes my weaknes in thys behalfe; no man attends court fortunes wth more impatience then I do. I esteeme nothinge more inexcusable, then to attend them chargeably, nor any expence so chargeable, as that of tyme. I ame so angry at theyr comminge, that I haue not so much as inquir'd why they came.
But they are euen wth mee; for, in truthe, they came for nothinge. Statesmen, who can finde matter of state, in any wrinkle in y^e kings socks, thinke that he came for y^e busines of Cleue. but whether for hys brother Saxon, or hys Cousin Brandenbourge, I do not hear that he can tell. And the low-Country men, thys last year, did hym such an affront, at hys great Custome-place, the Sondt, that some thinke he comes to vnderstand o^r kings disposition in y^t busi= nes, if he ^{^shall} go about to right himselfe vpon them. Others thinke he came to correct o^r enormity of yellow bands, by presentinge as many, as blew. For my particular opi= nion, I thinke, he came to defeat mee, and retard my busines.
He came vpon fryday, and he goes vpon monday; and these two termes limit are his history; for he doth nothinge between.
He hath brought with hym hys Chanceler, and hys Admirall; and ys otherwise well attended. He ships 100 horse; but sent them back, after he had been a day at sea. He pretended to go into Germany; but after he was at sea, he disco= verd hys purpose; and accordingly left a Commission for y^e gouernment, to be opened, after he had been certaine dayes away. The rest of hys history, yo^w may finde, I thinke, in some part of Amadis y^e Gaule, at yo^r leysure.

I wyll not contribute so much to myne own ill fortune, nor ioyne w^t her in a treason against myselfe, so much as to be absent now, when my absence may give perchance occasion, perchance excuse to others of slacknes in my busines. therfore I have neglected my pleasure, and y^e litle circum= stance of my health, (for in good faythe, my lyfe yt= selfe ys no great Circumstance to mee) w^{ch} I intended by goinge into y^e Cuntry. Therfor, s^r, I send backe yo^r horse, in as good case, as so longe rest in y^e Coven garden can make hym. If I finde yt necessary to go, I wyll be bold to aske yo^w, by an expresse Messenger againe, whether yo^w can spare him then, or no. yo^r poore sister remembers her loue to yo^r selfe and all yo^r company. So ^{do} I, s^r, who ame euer
