Right wor^{ll} and my very much respected freind: I haue caused your sonne to write out y^e note of y^s quarters expences w^{ch} arise to y^e greater sum^e, because he was entred in y^e daunceinge schoole. as he enformes me by your appoyntment, but had I not had good experience of his ingenuous nature, I would not haue giuen way vnto it, vpon soe weak warrant as his word, vnles I had understood your worships mind by a l̄er: not y^t I mislik y^e thinge, w^{ch} is an exercise well beseeminge a gentleman and noe hindrance to his study, but I thinke it vnfit for a Tutor to lay out any thinge extraordinary, for his pupill wthout he be fully secured y^t it standes wth his likeinge to whom he is to giue vp ye accounts of all expences. younge mens wills and wordes are not alwayes Tutors warrants, neither would I haue easely giuen way vnto y^s but y^t I knew who I trusted, for to speak noe more of him yⁿ I doe wth ioy dayly behold hn him. he is one y^t deserues my comendatory l̄ers both for his studious and virtuous behaiour, and be you assured y^t I will doe my best endeauour to hasten him forward in those well begunne courses: Thus not forgettinge my best respect and thankfulnes to yo^r much respected wife, and my loue to yo^r sonnes in hast I tak my leaue
