information by porter at the Marshalsea as to property of Humphrey Kempe a Cornishman

Mr Humfrey Kempe A Cornishe man hath enformed me Richarde Ede the porter of the marshalsey that Mr Roberte Beckett may spend CC<sup>li</sup> of good land by the yeare And for Mr More, his kinsman William Goulder did reporte by occation of speech that he and I had that his kinseman Could not spend much aboute C<sup>li</sup> by the yeare and I the foresaid porter annswered that he Did offer to give xx<sup>li</sup> A yeare to one that shoulde gett his libertie with the ffreedome of his Conscience They had rather give xx<sup>li</sup> a yeare to the maintenance of Seminarie preistes then one penie to her Maiestie And for Mr Iohn Grey, when he was in the marshalsey was the onlye distributer of monie to the Semynaries And nowe he is abroade he is thought to be the Collector for them, he was alwaies thought to be the beste monyed man of the Papistes and when he shalbe demavnded what he will give to the Quene he will then be worth iuste nothinge./. I am sure his man did bringe him monie euerye tearme out of Norffolk and yt is to be feared that the libertie and ffreindshippe that they have is the losse of an infenite Thousande of soules ./. I besech god even in the bowells of Christe that yt maie be better looked vnto./.

By me Richard Edde
