Sir

This is your Quietus est from me; It is your assurance that I will never trouble you more, about any place in your College; But this Quietus est must bear date from the end of this letter; for in the letter, I must make a suite of that kind, to you: In which, I know you will give a good interpretation of mine ingenuity, that I would not forbear even the troubling of you, when I had a way presented me, to do any service to that noble family, to whom I owe, even my posterity. Sir, At your last Election, Sir Robert More (to whom I have the honor to be brother-in-law) had a son elected into your school, and his place is not fallen, and so our hopes evacuated, that way. Because it was my work at first, I would feign perfect it; and I am in the right way of perfecting it, when I address myself to you, who have a perfect power in the business, and have multiplied demonstrations of a perfect love to me. That which was then done, was done by way of wa gratitude, by Mr Woodford, one of the then opposers, to whom I had given a Church, belonging to our Paul's: And for the favor which you shall be pleased to afford us herein, I offer you mother and daughters, all the service that I shall be able to do, to any servant of yours, in any place, of any of our Churches. Our most Blessed savior, bless you with all his graces, and restore us to a confident meeting in wholesomer places, and direct us all, by good ways to good ends. Amen.

your very true friend and humble servant in Christ Jesus John Donne
from Sir John Danvers' house at Chelsea, of whose house, and my Lord Carlisle's at Hanworth, I make up my Tusculan. 12 July. 1625
